

Paper Reports Plot to Kidnap Willy Brandt

BONN (AP) — Police have uncovered a plot to kidnap Chancellor Willy Brandt and Minister without Portfolio Horst Ehmke, the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung reported Friday.

The newspaper said Brandt and Ehmke were to be held hostage until leftist lawyer Horst Mahler was freed from a Berlin jail. He is being held on suspicion of being implicated in the escape of a man accused of attempting to set fire to a Frankfurt department store.

There was no immediate official comment on the report.

The newspaper said police found plans for the kidnappings in the last few days while searching for the missing man, Andreas Baader, in the Frankfurt area.

Brandt was to be kidnaped while taking his daily walk near Bonn and Ehmke in his Stuttgart electoral district, according to the report. They were to be held in the Taunus Mountains near Frankfurt until Mahler was released.

Police have been searching for Baader and those who freed him since last year.

On Wednesday night, two suspects shot their way out of a police trap in Frankfurt. They were Astrid Proll, daughter of a Kassel architect, and Jan Carl Raspe.

West German security officials have been worried by a recent increase in letters threatening Brandt and other members of his government. Last month officials were tipped off to a rightist plot to kill the chancellor while he was vacationing in Kenya. His security guard was increased during the trip.

2 Koreas at Odds On Skater's Status

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — A South Korean housewife's belief that a North Korean speed skater is her sister was challenged Friday by Communist officials who said it was all "a political plot" and said they had proof to rebut the claim.

It all began when Mrs. Han Kye-hwa, 39, of Seoul, came here with her 14-year-old daughter who was participating as a speed skater in pre-Olympic winter sport competition.

One reason for her trip, was the nagging belief that a North Korean speed skater named Han Pil-hwa, who will compete against her daughter, is in fact her own sister.

Hold Reunion With Families

Apollo Crewmen Return to Houston

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 14's moon explorers returned home Friday, held a reunion with their families through a glass panel and then began two more weeks of isolation in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

An Air Force C141 jet transport flew them to nearby Ellington Air Force Base, landing at 4:34 a.m. EST after a flight of more than 14 hours from American Samoa.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa were confined in a quarantine trailer, which was taken to the Manned Spacecraft Center, where the spacemen transferred to the lab.

The wives and children of the spacemen and several officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration stood in cool weather and blustery wind to greet the returning heroes.

The astronauts waved at them through a trailer window and Shepard, who commanded Apollo 14, said, "We feel it's been a good mission, and we're ready to start debriefing and talking about it."

"It is especially good to be back here," he added. "There were many little things that happened during the mission that could have been serious if it hadn't been for all the devoted efforts of all the people at the control center here in Houston who worked so long and hard to make things turn out right."

"We had a great time on the mission," Mitchell said. "It's been a thrill for us. We especially enjoy coming to see all of you."

Roosa apologized for the plane's being three hours late, saying, "We had a hard time getting away from those Samoan dancing girls."

"I want everyone of you to take pride in the mission," Roosa said. "It was your mission as well as ours."

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, told the astronauts, "We're sure proud of the job you did up there around the moon."

Waiting in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory were 13 persons who will remain with the astronauts until their release Feb. 26, performing medical, housekeeping and other chores.

Since Rescue

The spacemen began their isolation in a quarantine trailer aboard the helicopter carrier New Orleans after their recovery from a Pacific Ocean splashdown Tuesday.

When the ship had steamed to within helicopter range of Samoa Thursday, they departed by helicopter for Pago Pago, shielded in isolation garments and face masks. At Pago Pago, they boarded a quarantine trailer in the jet transport for the trip to Houston.

Quarantine for the trio was designed to prevent the spread of any germs they may have brought back from the moon. No germs were found on the astronauts or moon rocks of the Apollos 11 and 12 missions, and if the same is true of this crew, future moon astronauts probably will not be quarantined.

Open First of Boxes

Scientists planned Friday to open the first of the boxes of rocks and lunar material collected by Shepard and Mitchell in the moon's Fra Mauro highlands.

This box, containing about 10 pounds of samples, was flown here Thursday afternoon. It was placed in a cabinet of dry nitrogen gas, and the outside was sterilized throughout the night with peracetic acid.

Additional rocks arrived with the astronauts, but the bulk of the 95 pounds will come next week with the quarantine trailer that was aboard the New Orleans.

Experts hope some of the rocks will reveal clues to the birth of the moon, earth and solar system 4.6 billion years ago.

Priest Refuses to Answer Questions In Alleged Plot to Kidnap Kissinger

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A Roman Catholic priest, under total immunity from prosecution, refused Thursday to answer questions posed by a federal grand jury investigating an alleged plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Rev. J. William Michelman of Baltimore, risking a contempt of court citation, said he refused to answer the panel's questions because of a priest's "seal of confidence" and "priestly trust." His attorney said he doubted the government would charge the priest with contempt of court.

"It was an educational session for those unfamiliar with priestly confidence," Michelman said. "I explained it and they seemed to comprehend but it's hard to tell from faces."

The federal court here earlier had charged a Catholic nun with contempt of court for refusing to answer the panel's questions and had her jailed for four days. She was later freed when her case was appealed to the U.S. Third Circuit Court in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Patricia Channel, 41, a Silver Spring, Md., divorcee who had refused to answer the panel's questions Wednesday, was the next witness called to testify under immunity. She said she had not made up her mind whether she would answer questions.

Brink's Offering Big Reward for $180,000 Dropout

CHICAGO (UPI) — Brink's Int. is looking for $180,000 that fell out the back door of one of its trucks.

The money, in cash and checks, was in the back of an armored truck making a run last Monday night between two Chicago suburbs.

According to police in suburban Elmhurst, the back door of the truck apparently sprang open on an especially bumpy stretch of road.

One of the two guards noticed a draft, looked back and found two bags containing the money were missing.

When the money still hadn't turned up by Thursday, Brink's ran a "lost and found" advertisement in a Chicago newspaper.

The ad said: "Brink's is offering a liberal reward for information leading to the recovery of the contents of two bags which fell from its truck in the vicinity of North Ave. and York Rd., at or about 10:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 8, 1971."

The ad did not say what Brink's considers a "liberal reward" for the safe return of $180,000.

She's 'Too Ladylike' To Lead Women's Lib

Mrs. Bill Schurkens said her resignation was requested by some of the members who accused her of being "too ladylike."

Soviets Uphold Term Of 'Slandorous' Author

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet appeals court has upheld the three-year labor camp sentence imposed on Andrei Amalrik, the dissident writer convicted of slandering the Soviet Union.

The court also upheld the three-year sentence given Amalrik's codefendant, Lev Ubozhko. Amalrik is serving his sentence at a "strict regime" labor camp in the Ural Mountains. Ubozhko is at a "general regime" camp, a milder punishment.

Helped by Embattled Agency

Nixon's First Cousin Is on Relief in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon's first cousin, Philip Milhous and his wife, are welfare recipients who received help from the embattled California Rural Legal Assistance program, the Los Angeles Times said Thursday.

The Milhouses, residents of the rural Northern California community of Grass Valley, are ill and dependent on welfare and Social Security funds, the newspaper said it learned from Nevada County records.

At Key Biscayne, Fla., where the President is on a holiday, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, "This is a personal matter for the Milhous family and I think it would be presumptuous of me to carry it further."

Stating that the Milhouses are "a very self-reliant family," he noted that Mrs. Milhous had been quoted as saying that she and her husband had sought no aid from the President. He said Nixon was "proceeding on that basis."

Milhous, 55, and his wife, Anna, 47, sought help from the CRLA in late 1969, after the county welfare department attempted to cut back the couple's funds, the paper said.

CRLA, a legal aid service supported by federal funds that Gov. Ronald Reagan recently tried to veto, helped the Milhouses retain their payments.

"I voted for Gov. Reagan and, of course, Dick Nixon," the paper quoted Mrs. Milhous as saying, "but it is a shame they are picking on CRLA."

The Office of Economic Opportunity has agreed to fund the CRLA for an interim period, while charges from the Reagan administration that the legal aid service has not fulfilled its mission are investigated.

Milhous's father and President Nixon's mother were brother and sister.

Mrs. Milhous, contacted by telephone this week, told the Times she and her husband are hoping to get off the welfare.

She said the couple's troubles started in 1966 and have grown worse since, the paper reported.

Her husband suffered a heart attack at that time, she told the paper, and they lost their small chain-saw business in Grass valley.

He began receiving Social Security, which now pays the couple $270 per month, she told the paper. Mrs. Milhous, disabled with arthritis herself, said she has been receiving $57 a month in welfare, in addition to wages for a helper who cares for them in their one-story home, the Times reported.

They sought CRLA help, she told the Times, when the county said they were not entitled to money for the helper and transportation to their doctor.
