

Violence Mounts As Berlin Youths Continue Protest

BERLIN (AP)—Thousands of leftist demonstrators battled hundreds of police Sunday on West Berlin's swank Kurfuerstendamm boulevard.

The clash made a shambles of the traditional Easter Sunday parade of tourists and city families out for a stroll.

It was the fourth straight day of violence in the city since Holy Thursday, when student leader "Red" Rudi Dutschke was critically wounded by a lone gunman on the same street.

The massed demonstrators, carrying red flags and placards, and in one case a cross, grudgingly gave ground as a solid phalanx of policemen advanced slowly up the street. They were backed up by mounted officers.

Police water cannon fired thousands of gallons of water pointblank. The demonstrators huddled together rather than retreat. One Negro man stood his ground before an advancing armored water truck and was either knocked down or let himself fall.

Only when police advanced with clubs swinging did the demonstrators back up. They struck back with the handles of their signs as they retreated.

At least one patrolman was knocked down and beaten as he moved too far in front of his fellows.

Missiles of all sorts flew from the ranks of the demonstrators—stones, pieces of metal, fruit, firecrackers, paint. They tried to pile barriers across the street. Newsmen were among those splattered by red and green paint.

It was the most intensive clash between demonstrators and West Berlin police since a riot during an anti-Shah of Iran demonstration almost a year ago.

The demonstrators had massed for a rally at a downtown square, then moved along the Kurfuerstendamm.

When they refused police orders to disperse, they were driven back in both directions.

As the police advanced, the demonstrators chanted "Nazis, Nazis, Nazis." They also yelled "Ho-ho-ho-Chi Minh" and "Rudi Dutschke."

Police said 37 persons were arrested, although a number of others apparently were taken into custody and released.

No injury figures were given but ambulances were called to the scene.

U.K. Marchers Remember Dr. King

Ban-the-bomb marchers pause in Palmers Park at Reading, England, to sign a condolence book for the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King. There were 5,000 pacifists in the 54-mile march which converged on London Sunday. They started from Aldermaston, Britain's H-bomb research center, on Good Friday. A rally was planned in Trafalgar Square Monday. (UPI Radiophoto)

Site Spells Tragedy For 3 Brothers

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP)—Two brothers were killed Saturday when their car ran off a road and slammed into a house which, eight years ago, was the scene of a murder which sent their brother to prison.

Sheriff Robert Whitcomb of Allegan County in Western Michigan confirmed the uncanny coincidence of the tragedies.

Baby No. 23 Is Her Finale

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Mrs. Maria Beckman had her 23rd baby, and declared stoutly, "This is my last."

Baby Rosie, 7 lbs. 12 oz., made Mrs. Beckman undisputed winner of the New Zealand baby stakes. A few weeks ago Mrs. Tina Tengu had her 21st child which was thought to be the New Zealand record. At 45 Mrs. Beckman has amassed a family ranging in age from Robert, 27, down to Rosie.

Mrs. Beckman and her husband, who is unemployed and partly crippled with arthritis, live in the far north of the North island.

James Bell, 27, of South Haven, was killed outright in the accident and his brother, Charles Bell, 28, of Hastings, died later in a South Haven hospital.

The sheriff said in 1960, a third brother, Harold Bell, 30, was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to prison for the death of Byron Hoffett, who lived in the house at that time.

"It's incredible," a deputy said. "But it's true."

Whitcomb said their car ran off a road about 10 miles north-east of South Haven, skidded about 280 feet, crossed a ditch and a field and turned onto its top as it slid, before leaping into the air and crashing into the kitchen of the Glen Daley house.

The kitchen was ripped away from the house and furniture in the adjoining dining room was demolished. Daley had been fixing dinner in the kitchen when he saw the car careening toward him, and he ran to warn his wife and seven children.

The impact of the crash knocked Daley off his feet, but no one in the Daley house was seriously injured. The Bell car lodged above ground level in the kitchen.

Recent Deaths Barbour, Theater Figure

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oliver Barbour, 63, who worked as actor, director, producer and advertising executive during a long career in Hollywood and New York, died Thursday.

Barbour died in St. Barnabas Hospital. He had moved to New York late last year from Los Angeles where he was vice president in charge of the Hollywood office of the Ogilvy and Mather advertising firm.

Dr. Lauritsen

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Charles Lauritsen, 76, a member of the team that developed the atomic bomb, died at Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena Saturday after a long illness.

Lauritsen, a pioneer in nuclear physics and rocket development, was a consultant to the federal government on scientific matters. For the last 39 years he was on the staff at the California Institute of Technology.

In 1944 and 1945 he was at Los Alamos, N.M., while the first atomic device was being tested.

Czech Actress

PRAGUE (UPI)—Olga Scheinpflugova, 66, the nation's leading actress and widow of Czech writer Karel Capek, died Sunday.

Miss Scheinpflugova, a close friend of the late Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, hinted she was one of many persons who were convinced he was murdered. The cause of Masaryk's death was officially given as suicide in 1948.

One-Shot Hailstorm

BANSTEAD, England (UPI)—A two-and-a-half pound piece of ice fell from sunny skies through the roof of a vacant house here. It left a hole big enough for a man to go through. Police believe the ice may have fallen from a jet airliner.

Spain Police Halt Protest

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (UPI)—The biggest contingent of police mobilized since the Spanish Civil War clamped a virtual state of siege on San Sebastian Sunday to prevent Basque nationalists from staging an antigovernment demonstration to celebrate "Aberri Equa," the Basque national day.

The demonstration, which had backing from other opposition groups, was the first of a series expected this spring from elements increasingly dissatisfied with the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Bonnie and Clyde 'Ran From Killing'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—W.D. Jones, 51, who joined Clyde Barrow's gang at the age of 16, says Bonnie and Clyde "wouldn't last a week" against modern police methods.

Jones drove for the Southwest outlaw pair for a year during the 1930's before they were gunned to death by law officers on a lonely Louisiana road.

"In those days, all we had to do to make a getaway was cut the phone lines," Jones said in a copyrighted local television interview.

"That was my job," he said. "Clyde would say to me, 'Boy, climb up that pole and cut that wire.' And I'd do it. I did everything Clyde told me.

"They wouldn't last a week—with the radios the cops have got. But I don't blame him (Clyde) and Bonnie. They couldn't help it."

He said the portrayal of Bonnie Parker in the film "Bonnie and Clyde" was satisfactory, but said Clyde Barrow was not a braggart, as the movie suggested.

"Clyde Barrow was a real man," Jones said.

"They were really in love. But they didn't enjoy killing. There's a lot of things said about those people that's not true."

Jones said he stole cars for the Barrow gang and was in five killings and several gun battles.

He said he believes he joined the gang on Christmas Eve 1932. The next day Clyde told him, "I've got to make some money."
