

Baader-Meinhof trial postponed

STUTTGART, West Germany (CP) — The trial of the extreme left terrorist group, the Baader-Meinhof Red Army faction, which opened here last Wednesday and was adjourned seven hours later to May 30, has been once more postponed until June 5.

The trial is being held in a court built especially for what has been called here the most important political trial in the 20-year history of West Germany. Five hundred heavily-armed police guarded the court Wednesday when the four accused were brought in for a trial expected to last one year.
